ON VIEW AT EMPAC

The Color Out of Space

ON VIEW AT HIRSH OBSERVATORY

White Museum

Rosa Barba

MAR 07 / 14 / 21 / 28
two-part EMPAC commission was produced in collaboration with Rensselaer’s Hirsch Observatory, and will be presented on four consecutive Saturday evenings throughout March 2015. While transforming EMPAC’s 8th Street façade into an outdoor cinema that uses the solar system as source material for a speculative film, a site-specific artwork for the Hirsch Observatory will connect the two buildings across campus.

The Color Out of Space

35 minutes
EMPAC 8th Street Façade

March 7, 14, 21 and 28
8:00—8:35PM

A large-scale projection covering the building’s 8th Street façade will be viewable from downtown Troy and beyond, and the accompanying sound composition will broadcast locally. Using voices collaged by composer Jan St. Werner from interviews, fictions, and readings by artists and astronomers from around the world, including Ingrid Wiener, Georgia Horn, Emma Hedditch, Barbara Hammer, Laetitia Sadier, Evan Calder Williams, Jimmy Robert, Jean-Pierre Luminet, Colin Attwood, Daphne Beal, Heidi Newberg, Matthew Newby, and Oswald Wiener, the piece hovers at the speculative intersection of astronomy and art.

In order to fully enjoy this work, you will need to load the Rosa Barba audio stream from a smartphone at 8PM. The link is available through the event page for The Color Out of Space at empac.rpi.edu.

This new commission is produced in collaboration with undergraduate students Nicholas Palmieri, Jake Weiss, Thomas Hartmann, and Heidi Newberg, professor of physics, applied physics, and astronomy at Rensselaer.
A concurrent 70mm film installation at the Hirsch Observatory, White Museum, will project out of the dome and into the sky. Located on the roof of the Jonsson Rowland Science Center, the observatory was built in 1942 to house a 12" equatorial reflector telescope that was designed and constructed at Rensselaer. Juxtaposed against the current 16" Boller & Chivens dome telescope from the 1960s, the film projector traces the reciprocal relationship of astronomy and cinema.

Directions to the Hirsch Observatory: From the EMPAC lobby, walk east approximately 3 minutes, following the paved sidewalk onto the Rensselaer campus. The south entrance of the Jonsson Rowland Science Center will be on your left. An usher will escort you inside.

Biographies

Jan St. Werner is a composer and musician based in Berlin, Germany.Aliases include Mouse on Mars (with Andi Toma), Microstoria (with Markus Popp), Von Südenfed (with Andi Toma and Mark E Smith), Lithops, Neuter River, Noisemashinetapes. He has produced numerous recordings both solo and collaboratively, including The Fiepblatter Catalogue on Thrill Jockey Records and the Mouse on Mars 21 AGAIN Project on Monkeytown Records. St. Werner co-runs Sonig, an independent music label for experimental, electronic, and non-genre-specific music. He has composed orchestral works for musikFabrik, Solistenensemble Kaleidoskop, and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. St Werner's work has recently been featured at the ICA, London; Radialsystem V, Berlin; Kunsthaus Muerz, Austria; Kunstverein Munich, and Cornerhouse Manchester.
The Curtis R Priem Experimental Media and Performing Arts Center (EMPAC) is where the arts, sciences, and technology interact with and influence each other by using the same facilities and technologies, and by breathing the same air. EMPAC hosts artists and researchers to produce and present new work in a building designed with a sophisticated architectural and technical infrastructure. Four exceptional venues and studios enable audiences, artists, and researchers to inquire, experiment, develop, and experience the ever-changing relationship between ourselves, technology, and the worlds we create around us.
